

The Reformation's Rich Soil

PSALM 71:8

October 29, 2017
Dr. Ted Kitchens

The Rich Soil of the New Testament

SOLA SCRIPTURA: The Scriptures stand alone as the final authority for salvation and a life pleasing to God.

"... your word is truth." John 17:17

SOLA GRATIA: The Good News that God has done His saving work for us and offered it as a free gift.

For by grace you have been saved through faith. Ephesians 2:8-9

SOLA FIDE: Salvation comes to man through faith in Christ alone, plus nothing!

For I am not ashamed of the gospel ... For in it the righteousness of God is revealed from faith for faith, as it is written, "The righteous shall live by faith." Romans 1:16-17

SOLUS CHRISTUS: All that was necessary for my salvation was accomplished by Christ and Him alone.

"I am the way, and the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me." John 14:6

SOLI DEO GLORIA: God alone is due all glory for our salvation since it was accomplished by Him and to His glory.

... so that we who were the first to hope in Christ might be to the praise of his glory. Ephesians 1:12

The Perpetual Fruit of Christ Followers

God's Word changed Bach's life.

Bach's acquisition of Luther's German Bible made a dramatic spiritual impact on his life at age 48.

He consumed the Word of God by writing in margins, underlining passages and composing music to illustrate biblical themes.

Bach's music changed our world.

Music for Bach was never just about the notes, but chiefly a way of glorifying God in worship.

Bach was known as 'the fifth evangelist' because he always honored Jesus and placed SDG (Soli Deo Gloria) on his works.

THE BAROQUE PERIOD

1517	1522	1526	1536	1545	1600	1611	1680	1685	1687	1707	1720	1721	1741	1750
Luther posts 95 Theses	Zwingli consumes sausage during Lent	Tyndale completes English NT translation; smuggled copies circulate	Calvin writes first edition of Institutes of the Christian Religion	Catholic Counter-Reformation after Council of Trent	William Shakespeare writes Hamlet	King James Bible published	Antonio Stradivari begins making violins	J. S. Bach born Eisenach, Germany	Newton publishes theories of relativity and gravity	Bach marries Maria Barbara	Maria Barbara dies	Bach marries Anna Wilcke	Bach's Goldberg Variations published	Bach dies in Germany

This era of music history marked by flamboyance and vivid expression began in 1600 with the birth of opera and ended in 1750 with the death of Bach. It was also the golden age of Lutheran church music.

REFLECTING ON THE REFORMATION

Which reformer encouraged you most, and why? What do you imagine that reformer would tell you today?

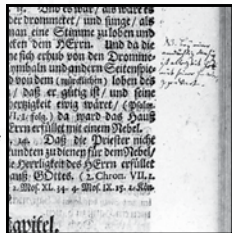

The reformers brought the focus back to Jesus and the gospel of the New Testament. How has the gospel personally moved you?

How have you felt moved to worship God as a natural response during this study?

Read John 15:1-11. What have you been attempting to do through your own efforts instead of relying on Christ alone? How has examining the five solas redirected your thinking?

Where do you feel God prompting you to take a risk in taking a stand for Christ?

Bach's handwritten note in his Bible next to 2 Chron 5:13: "[Note Well:] In a music of worship God is always present with his grace."

Morning Prayers in the Family of Sebastian Bach by Toby Rosenthal

There are more recordings of Bach's music than any other composer. Most of Bach's works are explicitly biblical. Missionary doctor and Bach expert Albert Schweitzer called him "the fifth evangelist." Swedish archbishop Nathan Söderblom called Bach's cantatas "the fifth Gospel."

Martin Luther's hymn "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" is the source for Bach's Cantata No. 80, written for Reformation Day (Oct. 31).

Bach accomplished the seemingly impossible task of preparing a different cantata every Sunday for a three-year period in the 1720s, one of the most astonishing creative explosions in the history of Western music. All the more amazing: even though they were simply the results of routine, many are masterpieces nonetheless.

One cantata Bach composed was about coffee addiction.

Bach fathered 20 children, 10 of whom survived to adulthood. In 15 years second wife Anna Magdalena went through 12 pregnancies. Eight of those children died at ages varying from one hour to five years; of the remaining four, one was seriously mentally handicapped. Anna was 41 and Sebastian 57 when the last child was born.

By 1749 Bach was completely blind. He died of complications from an eye surgery attempted to restore his vision.

After his death Bach was largely forgotten until Felix Mendelssohn revived "St. Matthew Passion" and musicians steadily rediscovered his extraordinary body of work.

THE WORDS OF J. S. BACH

"Music's only purpose should be the glory of God and the recreation of the human spirit."

When an acquaintance praised Bach's skill as an organist, Bach demonstrated characteristic humility and wit by replying, "There is nothing very wonderful about it; you have only to hit the right notes at the right moment and the instrument does the rest."

Robert Shaw, one of the 20th century's finest conductors, said that J. S. Bach might be the "single greatest creative genius" in the "whole history of the Western world." Mozart said of Bach's works, "Now there is music from which a [person] can learn something." Brahms commented, "Study Bach: there you find everything."

Glenn Gould, one of the greatest pianists of the 20th century: "[Bach was] first and last an architect, a constructor of sound, and what makes him so inestimably valuable to us is that he was beyond a doubt the greatest architect of sound who ever lived."

In his 90s, noted cellist and composer Pablo Casals noted, "For the past 80 years I have started each day in the same manner ... I go to the piano, and I play two preludes and fugues of Bach. I cannot think of doing otherwise. It is a sort of benediction on the house. But that is not its only meaning for me. It is a rediscovery of the world of which I have the joy of being a part. It fills me with awareness of the wonder of life, with the feeling of the incredible marvel of being a human being. The music is never the same for me, never. Each day it is something new, fantastic and unbelievable. That is Bach—like nature, a miracle!"
